Automobile owners cannot be too careful as to the quality of gasoline and lubricating oil they put in their cars.

It is not wise to stop your car at first one filling station and then another. This gives you mixed grades of "gas" and oil and plays havoc with your engine.

We handle only the best grades of gasoline and oil. And our prices are lower than you have often paid for cheaper grades. Get into the habit of calling here regularly and notice what a difference it will make in the way your car runs.

Quick and courteous service will meet you every time you stop here.

STRIVE TO BE IN HARMONY

No One Has a Right to Communicate His "Out-of-Sorts" Feeling to Those About Him.

"Harmony is what is needed in this world. When any of my machines are out of harmony, they put me out of harmony; I am out of harmony with those with whom I come in contact, and they consequently put others out of harmony, and that is the way it spreads. When one is out of harmony with one's self, he is out of harmony with God."

These are the statements of one of the greatest penmen of the day. His ideas are well founded.

When you arise in the morning and are out of harmony with yourself, you are bound to communicate the effect to all the members of your family.

By so doing you are changing what might have been a bright day to one of gloom to those for whom you should strive to make happiness.

A wife irritated by her husband is likely to be cross to the children, and then they go out and fight with their companions.

Don't let yourself be "out of sorts." It is bad for you; it is bad for your family; it is bad for your neighbors.

Shapes of Heads.

In the New Work Medical Record by David L. Macht of Baltimore, noting various malformations of the head that are met with by the modern clinician, speaks of three that are enumerated in the Talmud which disqualify one from ministering as a priest. These are named as the "kilon," the "lafon" and the "magbon." The condition of kilon is described as that of a person having a peculiarly shaped head, pointed at the top and broad at the bottom. The lafon was a head shaped exactly the opposite of the kilon. To use the expression of the Talmud, he had a head like a "lefos" that is a pumpkin (or gourd). The expression "magbon" was derived from the word hammer, and the Talmud described this hammerhead as one with a projecting forehead and occiput. Every student of the Bible is aware of the fact that the Hebrew priest was required to be "without bodily defect or blemish" in order to be eligible to service in the temple, a provision set forth in the twenty-first chapter of Leviticus.

Marshes in Mesopotamia.

The marshes of Mesopotamia were famous in the time of Alexander the Great. One of the last acts of his life, within a few weeks of his death, was a voyage down the Euphrates to the great dike of Palkopos, about 90 miles below Babylon. This dike had been constructed by the ancient Assyrian kings to let off the water of the river when it became excessive, into the marshes. It was reported not to be working well, and Alexander proposed to construct another dike lower down. He sailed on into the marshes steering his vessel himself, with his children on his head, to explore them and the toils of the kings, and so extensive were the lakes and swamps that Alexander's fleet lost its way among them.

When Cows Sold at $15.

How the increase in the cost of living has progressed in the last thirty or forty years was discussed by Gov. J. B. Kendrick of Wyoming, an old stockman, who has watched the market of events. Today a chicken is worth more than a turkey was a few years ago; a turkey more than a hog; a hog more than a cow used to be worth, and a cow more than a horse. This illustrates the increase in the price of food stock.

"In March, 1879, I went down to Texas to look over two thousand head of steers in Matagorda county, southern Texas," Governor Kendrick said, according to the Washington Post. "While I was down looking over the young cattle I was asked by the manager of the ranch if I cared to buy some older steers. The owner, I was told, had a number of six-year-old steers that he would sell, although he was not anxious. He was going to hold them until he got his price, he declared. The manager impressed upon me, however, that I need not hope to buy unless I was willing to pay the owner's price."

"I asked the price, and was told that he wanted fifteen dollars a head. I took of it—fifteen dollars a head for six-year-olds, and today calves are bringing a sixty-five dollars."

MADE BIG MISTAKE

TRAVELING MAN "GOT GAY" WITH THE WRONG MAN.

Meant His Remarks as a Joke, but Sleepy Individual Whom He Had Abused Could Not See It That Way.

A Columbus traveling man tells of an unusual and humorous experience on the road down in south Georgia a few days ago.

A salesman had been working that section and found business fine. Cotton sales had been good and the folks had money to buy his commodity and did buy. So, his work over and an envelope stuffed with orders mailed in the post office, he felt in extraordinary fine spirits when he boarded the train to go to the next town.

The train started off and the salesman stood on the back platform, smoking a good cigar and surveying the scenery with great satisfaction. A rather shiftless looking individual was leaning against a post near the truck, a hundred yards or so from the depot. The train had gathered considerable momentum and was going fast when it passed the post.

The salesman was in extraordinary high spirits and his good humor had to vent itself some way; and it expressed itself in this most unusual manner. When the rapidly-moving train passed the shiftless-looking man the traveler leaped off the platform, shook his fingers in the other's face and in the course of two or three hilarious seconds gave him his complete industrial and personal history in terse, crisp phrases. The traveling man was smiling, and if the citizen had but known it, his apparently derogatory remarks were really an expression of overflowing good nature and satisfaction with the world; but the sleepy-looking man couldn't see anything in it but malice of the most astonishing and unexpected kind.

To the traveling man's astonishment, the sleepy-looking man, galvanized into life, started down the track at full speed after the train, now going quite fast. It was apparently an unequal race and the man on the platform was slightly amused, although admiring the other's pluck and endurance. In two or three minutes, however, he was surprised to find the speed of the train lessening, and as it did so the runner made another start. In just a little bit the train came to a dead stop—the engine always paused to get water there, although this passenger was, of course, unaware of that fact. The Marathon runner in the rear arrived in time to jerk the traveler off the platform. The closest kind of fight followed, but when the traveling man managed to climb back on the platform as the train started off again, he had two well-blackened eyes and his nose suit was sadly torn, while the gentleman, whom he had decorated with several titles a quarter mile back down the track, had found and was utilizing another post and seemed in a state of perfect content.—Macon Telegraph.

Predicts a Simple Religion.

"When the war is over we are going to have a simple religion, a religion without frills," the bishop of Steney said, addressing those who took part in the second procession of prayer and intercession service arranged by the Church League for Women's Suffrage in Hyde Park. "No frills," he added, pointing, amid laughter, to the frills on his own sleeves.

"We shall want a religion that will hold us together. We have had a great deal too much of individualism in religion. We have had too much of theology of the jolly miller who lived on the banks of the River Dee, who said, 'I care for nobody, no, not I, and nobody cares for me!'"

The boys when they came back from the front would not want mere singing, or billiards, diluted with religious thought, but something stronger and firmer, he asserted, and with all his heart he believed we wanted more religion, but a real, living, simple religion.—London Observer.

Speed of the Turtle.

The slowness of the turtle again is proved, but he gets there just the same. While hunting on Dantz ran in Delmar township, L. R. Van Horn found a large mud turtle. He noticed a steel plate on its back, which bore the inscription "V. D. G., 4-15-13." It was supposed that these were the initials of V. D. Gross of Tyndalton, and Van Horn wrote him a letter.

He replied that he had found the turtle in Pine creek at Tyndalton and put on the plate and turned him loose. In two years and seven months his turtle has traveled 18 miles. Van Horn has had a copper plate made with his initials and address, and he will send the turtle to same point in the North Star and have it liberated.—Wellshoro (Pa.) Correspondent New York Sun.

In Darkest San Francisco.

A superb marble figure of Christ typifying "Christianity Emerging From Paganism," the work of a famous foreign artist, exhibited at the Panama exposition, was offered as a gift to the city of San Francisco. The women of that city raised $4,000 to meet the cost of transportation and material, but the park commissioners refused the gift on the ground that "the subject was a religious one."—Leslie's.
